BY THE THOUGHTFUL

A Tribute to Weather Conditions in Western Canada.

During the early portion of February, of this year, the Middle and Western States suffered severely with the intense cold and winter's storms. Trains were delayed, cattle suffered, and there was much general hardship. While this was the case, throughout Western Canada, now attracting so much attention, the weather was perfect.

One correspondent writes: "We are enjoying most beautiful weather, the gentlemen are going to church without top coats, while the ladies require no heavier outer clothing than that afforded by light jackets." In contrast with this it is interesting to read in a St. Paul paper of February 13 the following, in double headlines, and large bold-faced type:

"Waim Wave Near Arctic Zone, "Calgary Much Warmer Than St.

"Balmy Breezes are Blowing in Northwestern Canada while people are freezing to death in Texas and other year the number of settlers who went to Canada was greater than any previous January. The movement northward is increasing wonderfully. The vacant lands of Western Canada are rapidly filling with an excellent class of people. The Government Agents located at different points in the States, whose duty it is to direct settlers, are busier than ever. They have arranged for special excursions during the months of March and April, and will be pleased to give intending settlers any desired information.

Big Packers Exonerated by Garfield. The report of Commissioner Garfield of the so called beef trust is conducted has been published and a closely printed book of over 300 pages is the result of the examination to which that industry has been subjected. The report is very full and complete, every phase of the business having been investigated with the utmost consequent therefore are a subjected with the numer to the result of the full prisonment.

The conviction of the ruined queen of finance was a sensational and hysterical conclusion to a trial that has been replete with tragedy and absorbing dramatic interest. Mrs. Chadwick collapsed completely when the fateful care and thoroughness, as is shown by exhaustive tables of figures, with anthenticated facts and statistical data covering almost every detail of the business. After a careful reading of this report it is impossible to arrive at any other con-clusion than that for some time past there has been a great deal said and writ-ten about this great industry that has had no foundation in fact. It would ap-pear that a popular clamor has resulted from newspaper comment and the passage of many resolutions by those who, as plainly shown by the report, were without any definite information. This report, the result of an inquiry in compliance with a congressional demand upon the secretary of commerce and labor, is so complete and detailed that, as a whole, it will not of course be read by the public at large, but the facts and figures, authenticated by government expert examiners, which it contains, show with indisputable certainty that the hue and cry raised during the past year against the packers has been at least unreasonand much of it, indeed, has been hysterieal. These officially ascertained facts are a surprise to very many who have been impressed by the denunciatory language they have read and heard for some time past, for they now find that, instead of the great profits said to be made by, western packers, the business is being conducted upon a smaller margin of profit than that prevailing in any other industry. Commissioner Garfield himself starts: "The year 1902 instead of being industry. Commissioner Garner minimustry. The year 1902, instead of being says: "The year 1902, instead of being says: one of exorbitant profits, as has been commonly supposed, was less profitable than usual," and this will be remembered year when the highest prices ruled and the packers were being everywhere accused of extortionate methods. Regarding this very year when the complaints of injustice were the loudest and the most unanimous, the commissioner says: "In fact during the months when the prices of becf were the highest, some, at least, of the leading packers were actualleast, of the leating packers were actually losing money on every head of cattle slaughtered" for the reason, he continues, "it was not possible to advance the prices of beef in full proportion to the great advance in the prices of cattle at that time."

The report also shows that the public belief that enormous profits are usually eharacteristic of the beef business is entirely erroneous, as it proves, after full investigation, that the maximum net return on the several investments was two and three-tenths per cent, and the minimum one and eight-tenths per cent.

The report is much too detailed and extensive to attempt any thorough review, extensive to attempt any thorough review, but it clearly demonstrates that there has been a great deal of unnecessary alarm on the part of the public as to the meat situation and a good deal of loose demunciation of packers about whose methods and business there has been little or no real information. The conclusions of Commissioner Garfield are all the more valuable as the investigation was by no means commenced in anything like a friendly or partial spirit and that it has been full and complete is shown when he says: "All the statistics taken from the books of the companies were checked in the most thorough manner. Totals selected at random were verified by the items. Many typical banches of cattle have been traced from the time of rurchase to the time of sale as dressed purchase to the time of sale as dressed beef, thus obtaining accurate information from original records of costs, of actual selling prices and of ultimate actual selling prices and of ultimate profits. In many cases the statements of cattle purchased by the companies were compared with accounts of the commission houses through whom the cattle were sold. The various checks thus employed insure the absolute accuracy of the insures."

KUROPATKIN IS NOT THE ONLY ONE WHO HAS TROUBLE AT THE REAR.

Mrs. Chadwick Convicted by the Jury of Conspiracy Against the United States.

THE NOTED WOMAN COLLAPSED.

The Verdict Makes Possible a Maximum Penalty of 14 Years at Hard Labor in Prison.

The Case Will Be Taken To the Court of Appeals at Cincinnati As Soon As Possible, Says Her Attorneys.

Cleveland, O., March 13.-Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick was convicted of conspiracy against the United States. The jury required only brief deliberation to find her guilty on all of the seven counts of the indictment on which she was tried. The verdict makes possible a maximum penalty of 14 years at hard labor in the penitentiary and a fine of $70,000 in addition to the imprisonment.

collapsed completely when the fateful words were read to her, and for a half hour her pitiful sobs and outcries rang through the deserted federal building like the wailing of a lost' soul.

"I'm not guilty. Oh! how can they say I am?" she shrieked, while her devoted son, Emil Hoover, and a half dozen court attaches strove vainly to control her frenzied plunges.

Case To Be Appealed.

In speaking of the verdict of the jury in the trial of his client, Mrs. Chadwick, J. P. Dawley, her senior counsel, said that the verdict was not according to the terms of the indictment and that the case would be taken to the court of appeals at Cincinnati as soon as possible.

. Mr. Dawley saw Mrs. Chadwick for a time at the jail Sunday and sald she was somewhat prostrated over the verdict, but he assured her that he felt there was good grounds for hoping for a reversal of the verdict and that this information cheered Mrs. Chadwick considerably. Mr. Dawley said that his client had a very unfortunate jury, men wholly unacquainted to banking transactions or dealing largely in the borrowing of money, etc. If the jurymen could have eliminated from their minds the impressions they probably had formed, and tried the prisoner on the one question involved in the indictment, he felt sure the verdict would have been different.

ROOSEVELT'S PEN.

During the Session of the Late Congress He Signed 1,842 Measures.

Washington, March 13.—During the session of the late congress President Roosevelt signed 1,842 measures passed by the senate and house of representatives.

Of the measures enacted at the last session, 33 were public bills, including way. 14 appropriation bills; 1,569 were pri vate bills, 34 were public resolutions and one was a private resolution.

The total number of enactments during the previous session of the 58th congress, which was nearly two closed, was 2,199.

PHILADELPHIA

Formidable Insurrectionary Movement Against the Castro Regime.

Philadelphia, March 13.-A formid able insurrectionary movement aimed against the Castro regime in Venezuela has been uncovered in this city by agents of the Venezuelan government and so alarming is the nature and strength of the revolutionary plot that a formal protest has been sent to President Roosevelt by Senor Salcedo Ochoa, the Venezuelan consul here. Senor Ochoa's complaint is based on the discoveries of a Venezuelan secret police who have been keeping a sharp watch on revolutionists now living in this city.

The machinations against Castro, according to evidence unturned by the detectives, have reached a climax, and unless the plot is overthrown a steamer, under surveillance will shortly leave this port on a secret mission, which is said to be no less than an armed move against the South American president and his government.

THE CAMPAIGN.

The Question Is, Can Russia Continue It.

London, March 13.-The London newspapers are occupied by the question of whether Russia can continue the campaign. Even in the light of later dispatches showing that Gen. Kuropatkin has retrieved a portion of his great army no longer exists as a concrete fighting force, and it is believed the Japanese, after a few days. which are required to rest and reorganize, will compel him to fight another battle in hls present exhausted and denuded condition at Tie Pass. In short, the general opinion is that in the face of financial and other difficulties an attempt to continue the war would be almost madness.

SENATOR BATE'S REMAINS.

Twenty-Five Thousand People Viewed Them in House of Representatives.

Nashville, Tenn., March 13.-Under the shot-rent, powder stained flag of the Second Tennessee confederate regiment which he led at Chickamauga and with the stars and stripes float ing at half-mast from the dome of the capitol building, the remains of United States Senator William B. Bate lay in state in the hall of the house of representatives. Twenty-five thousand people viewed the remains. Under a guard of old confederates and state military the body rested in the hall of representatives at night.

SIXTEEN PRISONERS ESCAPED.

One Was Shot Dead and the Others Were Captured.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 13.-Sixteen prisoners made a desperate dash for liberty from the county jail at the breakfast hour. One of them, Silas Love, was shot dead and Dick Mastings escaped. Others who secured temporary liberty were all captured in a short time. Among the prisoners attempting to regain their freedom was Heuston Hooker, sentenced to hang for the murder of Conductor Atwood, of the St. Louis & Iron Mountain rail-

Japanese Troops Captured Over 40,000 Russians, Including One Major General.

RUSSIAN CASUALTIES 90,000.

Japanese Losses Since the 26th of January to the Morning of March the 12th Were 41,222.

Trophies Captured: Two Ensigns, 60 Guns, 60,000 Rifles, 150 Ammunition Wagons, 1,000 Army Wagons and 2,000 Shells.

Washington, March 13.-The Japanese legation has received the following cablegram from the foreign office at

"The armies on the Shakhe quarter reported up to Sunday morning the following approximate figures, which are still increasing:

"Prisoners, over 40,000, including Maj. Gen. Makhimoff; Russian corpses on the field, 26,500. Other Russian casualties, 90,000. Trophies, two ensigns, 60 guns, 60,000 rifles, 150 ammunition wagons, 1,000 army wagons, 200,000 shells, 25,000,000 shots for rifles, 74,000 bushels of grain, materials for light railroad for 46 miles, 300 wagons for light road, 2,000 horses, 23 Chinese carts full of maps, 1,000 Chinese carts full of clothing; 1,000,000 portions of bread, 150,000,000 pounds of fuel; 223,000 bushels of horse allowances and 125,000 pounds of hay. The report from the Sinking quarter has not yet been received."

Prior to the receipt of the foregoing elegram the Japanese legation received the following cablegram from Hotly Pursuing the Enemy. "Report received in the afternoon of "Our various detachments hotly pursuing enemy from all directions and inflicting considerable damage upon him everywhere. Occupied on the afternoon of the 10th of March the line extending 13 miles to the north of Hunbo and are still continuing pursuit on the 11th of March. "Our detachment, which proceeded northward on the morning of the 11th of March from the neighborhood of Pulso, met a large column of the enemy retreating northwards and after hand-to-hand fighting we enveloped the column which finally surrendered. "Near Mukden we are now engaged in clearing remnants of the routed cnemy, some of whom still continue resistance, while the others come to sur-

"Heaps of Russian corpses are

"Our total casualties since the 26th of February to the morning of the 12th of March were 41,222.'

Heavy Fighting Anticipated. Tokio, March 13.-The Japanese pursuit of the Russian armies continues and a resumption of heavy fighting in the vicinity of Tie Pass is anticipated. Tie Pass, which is naturally strong, has been extensively fortified and it is thought the Russians will rally there in an endeavor to check the Japanese. The rapidly advancing Japanese already are in touch at Tie Pass. The Russians evidently are confused and exhausted and possibly are short of food and ammunition, and it is believed here they will be unable to resist a strong attack.

Succeeding field reports increase the extent of the Russian disaster. It will require months to re-supply and reorganize the Russian armies. Estimates of casualties given by captives reach 40 per cent. The artillery losses were especially heavy.

TO THE BITTER END.

The War in the Far East Will Be Continued.

St. Petersburg, March 13.-The immediate answer of the Russian government to the defeat at Mukden is the announcement that a new army will be raised and the forces in the far east reorganized; that Vice Adm. Rojestvensky will be ordered to sail on and try conclusions with Togo and that the war will be prosecuted to the bitter end.

This is the present temper of Emperor Nicholas and his dominant advisors, voiced in a firm official announcement that the position of Russia is unchanged and that the initiative for peace can only come from Japan. Should the island empire choose to tender "moderate" terms and recognize its adversary as the power in the far east peace could be easily ar-

Democratic party.

The decision of the Court of Appeals giving Fayette county the right to try the Hargises and Callahan is believed by many to be the beginning of the end of the disgraceful record of bloody Breathitt. Not that anyone desires the punishment of these men, if they are innocent but it is a relief if they are innocent, but it is a relief in the minds of the people to know that they will be tried before a tribunal not of their own construction and choosing. We think that it has been demonstrated recently that a fair trial can be held in Fayette county, and it now remains to be seen whether these men are really the criminals they are said to be they are said to be.

This trial should end the rule of assassination and anarchy in Breathitt county, which has so long cursed that county and disgraced the State.

Circuit Court.

Circuit Court convene yesterday morning with Judge R. L. Stout on the bench and Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin at his post of duty.
After the oath was administered to Judge Stout by Circuit Clerk Butler, the new judge opened court in a business-like manner and becoming dignity. His charge to the grand jury impressed all as being to the point and that he knew his duty and proposed to do it.

He called especial attention to violation of the Sunday law by the saloons, concealed weapons, gaming, and to officers of the law not doing their sworn duty. He said that violation of law in regard to these minor of-fenses only led to the horrible murders that our Commonwealth was Insure with W. O. Hinton. He noted for and gave an illustration of a case that had come to his own personal knowledge.

He cited the law to the jury in each of the named offenses, stating that The Metropolitan Life Insurance of the Manded Orlenses, stating that his oath of office required him to do it and that while he was endeavoring to of rooms in the new J. S. Wilson do his duty he expected the gentle-

Bourbon's Giant Dead.

Joseph Craig, the Bourbon giant, died at his home at Plum, this county, Saturday, of erysipelas. Craig was said to be the largest man in the State and for a number of years traveled with Barnum's circus as the Kentucky giant. He was aged 65 years, measured a little below seven feet and weighed over 400 pounds. He was quite active and of a jolly disposition. A special casket had to be ordered for him from Cincinnati—it measured eight feet long, 44 inches in width and 40 inches deep, and too large to go in the hearse or ambulance. His funeral was held yesterday morn-

A Woodford Delegation.

The following delegation from Woodford county, accompanied Judge R. L. Stout to our city yesterday exceptions, which are undoubtedly the fault of the architect.

The most serious objection to the interior is the balcony in the circuit court room, which spoils the looks of the handsemest court room in Kentucky. The most serious objection to the exterior is the front steps. It is like climbing a ladder to get in a cherry tree. If there is anyway for the Committee to take out that balcony and remedy the front steps the citizens of Bourbon county will be under everlasting obligations to them. The building will be in readiness for a June term of court and old Bourprettiest court which is a good criterion.

Woodford county, the our city yesterday morning, it being the convening of the Judge's first court in Bourbon: County Judge James E. Wilhoit, Representative J. W. Newman, D. T. Edwards, John W. Stout, L. A. Nichols, George G. Rout, D. E. Wasson, Geo. B. Mosely, Horatio S. Bright, Sam L. Woolridge and Editor Daniel M. Bowman. This crowd of representative citizens of Woodford county speaks well for Judge Stout, for from the expression of his home people he is much beloved by everyone. Make a channel of their own,
Run and sing a monotone;
Tell of hills they just have left;
Tell of bald old spur and cleft;
Stop and form into a pool
In the beech tree's shadows cool.
Just a moment stilly bide
Where the trout and grayling hide,
Down the rapid gleam and flash,
Strike a bowlder with a dash Strike a bowlder with a dash Of white foam and silver spray, Then go giggling on their way.

Till the rill a cow might drink Widens out from brink to brink, And the pool where youngsters swam Is way back beyond the dam And forgotten. On its tide Now deep laden freighters ride, Barge and schooner, sail and steam, Leave an oily wake to gleam Where they pass; a pathway gone Like the banners of the dawn. Harnessed, curbed and made to bear Burdens bound for everywhere Over the horizon's rim; Out into the distance dim Where a foreign people bide
Till the largess of the tide
Brings them plenty, till their toil Brings to them a world-wide spoll.

But the creek, a river grown, Treasures mem'ries of its own; Not the wealth it bears afar Where undreamed of peoples are; But of willows trailing down On its surface swift and brown; Of the boys who left its tide; Of the pool where graylings hide; Of the ox-eyed daisy, too, Leaning over drenched in dew For a look at its sweet self, From the bank's outjutting shelf, In the mirrored tide below. Who can doubt that daisies know Of their beauty? So the stream 'Neath the glare of day, and gleam Of the stars, like world-worn men Dreams of idle youth again. -J. M. Lewis, in Houston Post.

STORY OF THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC

By GRN. CHARLES KING thor of "Norman Holt," "The Colon Dau [ hter," "Port Frayne," Etc.

Copyright, 1902. by G. W. Dillingham Co.

But if Jackson's real movements are unknown to our generals, rest you sure the eyes of his army have not been left behind. Early that very morning Johnson sends young Gaither with his gray-elad troop spiering and when our confident courier comes galloping along with McDowell's dispatches to Sigel planned for the day, Gaither gathers programme to Johnson, who grins with delight, and passes it on to Old Jack himself, away on toward Sudley Springs, snoozing with his division commanders Ewell and Taliaferro, on their soldier pillow-saddles-in the snake-fence eorner. Here is the chance of a lifetime! Somewhere to the west must be two of McDowell's divisions alone. And, even while he is rousing his right and left bowers, Ewell and Taliaferro, there comes word from Stuart that Ricketts has gone out to Thoroughfare, and McDowell, with one isolated division is marching eastward from Gainesville. Now, "Up guards and at 'em!" Up Ewell and Taliaferro! Up guns and brigades-batteries three and brigades just five and away they go at the edge of the sheltering woods untll nearly three- miles out to the southwest, and there the dusty, grimy, gray brigades lie down and wait for that devoted division..

Off to the right front is a cosy farmhouse and Ewell lets his wideawakes go sampling, and takes a hearty sip, as a dark-eyed young aide-de-camp rides up with a dripping canteen of the soothing white fluid. "Thanks, Mr. Ladue," says he. "That's most refreshing. By the way, you know some of these fellows we're expecting out yonder, don't you?" and the general points southward. Ladue follows the gesture of his commander, and then, his eyes, dark, mournful and apprehensive, fix upon that vehement soldier face. "Wisconsin?" he falters. "I felt-I knew it must come-sometime."

"Yes, sir, and John Gibbon commands that brigade now, they say. I've known him for years. To think of his being there-and he a Tar Heel!" And here his kindling eyes turn to where Trimble's men are stretched upon the turf--North Carolina closed on Ala-

"They're coming!" "Coming!" young officers spring forward and peer over the low crest in front. Poague, flipped a hand to his bugler, and low and mutified "Attention!" is sounded. Low and muffled, it is repeated still more faintly farther off to the east, the north by the men of the south: to their posts.

towing, with vengerul spit of dame tery hurls its screaming challenge over the startled heads of the second brigade. Out beyond the first battery, his dark eyes are burning with excitetrot Wooding and Carpenter, forming the northwest of Groveton, and so feet, the little red battle flags are lifted three batteries are suddenly hurling on high, and forward goes the brigade, their swift fire upon the now halted sweeping in three slender lines to the column. "Now see 'em take to cover!" shout the seasoned ones by the gun- skirmishers leap from the grass and side, as the left half battery echoes the right, and all the front of Starke's brigade is now covered by flashing guns, bellowing in chorus, the men, leaping in and out to reload, dimly seen impudent Yanks whirling back to the through the billowing battery smoke, and still, screaming and shricking the shells sail high across the rolling earth sea. "See 'em take to cover," indeed! Well might they do so, for just beyond the pike the woods lie thick and unbroken, but, sudden as the shot, each regiment has "fronted" to its left. The steel ramrods of the foremost are seen flashing in air. The shrill voice of Old Graybeard, spurring third. Down go dozens in the foremost back to his colors, has yelled the order to load at will, and not until they're bitten and poured and rammed and gers. "Forward!" is one hoarse shoutcapped does he follow that with "Lie ed order, "Fire!" another; and with down!" The right of their line is the skirmishers crouching, crawling, flat on its belly at the edge of the field, while sparring, lashing and bounding, cannoneers racing alongside like mad, eartridges into the smoking tubes, and pect—the beloved of the brigade out wall" is brought to a halt and gets on the field, comes "front into line" at a breakneck pace, whirls without halting its bronze beauties about, and in another moment the loud-ringing "light twelves" are out-bellowing the trio of batteries blazing there northwest of Groveton, sweeping their sections with "spherical case." Five, ten, fifteen minutes the duel of death goes on. Gibbon's gunners are all regulars, lords of their trade, and old Ewell sees it and knows it. "Limber up, Poague! Back all of you! They are too heavy for our guns!" is the order, and Paul Ladue spurs to carry it. Out of the way, gentlemen gunners! It's onr time now, goes the word from Starke's eager ranks, and so on down the long line. Into their saddles leap the field, staff and commanders. The sun has gone down; the dusk is at hand, the night must not come until that stubborn brigade has been swept from the earth. Who shall do it, Ewell or Talia-

From the westward now, from the far right flank, a daring battery whips out on the field and unlimbers where its guns can enfilade Gibbon's triumphant boomers, and young Taliaferro's little brigade, till now held in rear, goes striding off behind its fellows, and so on to the extreme right as though in support. And still it is a battle of guns and gunners, for Jackson holds his hounds in leash, "down charged" at heel, crouehed at the edge of the woods.

And then comes the surprise of the day, the event of the hour, the marvel of the campaign. Even as Ewell and and Reynolds telling them just what is Taliaferro are deciding that the moment has come for attack, lo! to the him in, sends the much-appreciated amaze of the men of the Stonewall and another brigade is in line for the he sat his horse, pierced through both brigade, still the extreme right of the line, there is a glint of steel in the opposite grove and a dark column bursts from the depths of the wood. Nimbly a swarm of skirmishers leap from their covert and come dancing out over the sward. Straight for the guns drives the daring blue line, backed by eight solid companies, closed on the colors and marching abreast. Fancy the canary defying the cat! Fancy the terrier bearding the tiger! Fancy the lamb assailing the butcher, and you have the sensation that thrills the waiting divisions as a grizzled Georgia turns to his men with delight in his eye and five words on his tongue: "The Black Hats-by Goad!"

> CHAPTER XVII. HOW THE BRIGADE WINS ITS NAME.

Over at the southwest, half way to that second grove in the shelter of which the rearmost brigade has haited stand that little orchard and nearby farm-house, a barn or two, with some fences and a decrepit wall of jagged rocks. Half way to this one peaceful spot, to the right front of these crouching, staring, incredulous lads of the "Stonewall," the threatened guns are thundering, the gray cannoneers leaping in and out through the billowing muds of sulphur smoke. Half way toward that eastward grove, which conceals most of the second in column of the blue brigades, this solitary battalion in the feathered black hats and under command of that gamecock of the wake of its skirmishers, is jaintily proceeding to show its comrades back on the pike how Bull Run veterans take a battery. Half way between the try they do, manfully, loyally-but two groves, halted in the road and heavens, what can human valor win watching the scene are Doubleday's three battalions, all three not as strong as a fair-sized regiment. Gibbon, ehief "See!" are the excited whispers, and of the second brigade, has led the Black Hats through the wood, then, halting at the edge has bid them go in, their that year-old, yet veteran, gunner, has swathy little colonel waving his hand in glad acceptance of the trust-the last salute of his soldier life. Almost all of the blue division can be seen from where the horses of Wooding and almost nothing of the gray division Carpenter are grazing on the scanty can be seen from the south by the men turf, and drivers and cannoneers spring of the north. Gazing through their binoculars, the union commander and rear, and Ladue rides on after Starke But Old Jack gives no sign. He is staff note not a sign of the foe, save waiting and watching. Wonder of wonders! So far from scurrying at sight of the "Stonewall," that sombre, black-crested line halts short at sudden word of command; a crashing volley, driving point blank up the gentle rise, sends its storm of lead square in the "Stonewall's" face. Sol Meredith's Hoosiers ar sweeping at double quick straight from the pike at the west of the grove. Arms at the trail, at the shoulder or is heading straight for the left of Wis eonsin, and in five minutes more its south, another battalion for the union, and still not a man has thought of of wounded hobbling painfully back for the rear.

"Shall iron break the northern iron -or steel?" mutters Old Jack, in the words of the prophet, his eyes filled with trouble, his teeth firm set as once again the cheering, banner-waving, fireflashing ranks of his devoted battalions sweep down the gentle slope until almost lost in the smoke of the opposite lines, then slowly settle to a halt, astounded, for though full half colonel slaps down his field-glass and of its left wing seems shot out of line, and the Hoosiers and Black Hats are shrunk to half their original strength; there, shoulder to shoulder, daring, defiant, indomitable stands the brigade. the swart faces of the men lit by the flash of their guns, and Ewell, grim old soldier, borne to the rear with a shattered thigh, groans to his mournful aides that at last the division has met its match.

· Jackson's pale face is rigid as he himself bends over his loyal second in command, and his lips move in prayer, never in imprecation, ere they issue their next order, "Try again." And this time, Trimble, too, drives in with Lawton, only to see that machinelike regiment to the east of the Black Hats. despite the numbers dropping in their tracks and dribbling away from the extreme right under the deluge of shrapnel from the southern guns, doing more fancy drill in front of the foe, changing front forward by company a lieutenant-colonel, and then pouring withering fire into the left of the Louisiana men. "Try again," says Jack, and against iron resolution? Two of Doubleday's battalions, one a mere skeleton like most of those of Baylor's and Taliaferro's, have ranged up in the gaps of the union brigade, a shadowy fabric now, visible only in the flash of the guns, but as Paul Ladue trots through the groups where surgeons and stretchermen are trying to care for the it be accident!"-Smith's Weekly. vast numbers of wounded, he looks in vain for a division commander to whom to deliver Jackson's last order and the news that Ewell is down Taliaferro, too, has been borne to the to bid him take command. And after all what has he accomplished? What has he not done this night but blunder? All he had to do was to remain there in concealment beyond that unfinished railway grade, resting in the shady woods, and, all unconscious of his presence, the union brigades would have passed him by, leaving Ricketts far in the rear to be cut off, crushed or captured. But the sight of 6,000 Yankees marching along almost parallel to his front, all unsupported, was too much for even such fiety as Jackson's. Ordinarily he had done wonders with a dozen regiments nearly as small as these. To-night he sends in twice that number to assail a smaller force, and is fought to a stand within an hour. He has gained nothing. He has lost one-third of his best and bravest-his Virginians. He has betrayed his position to the enemy, for Sigel, away to the southeast. has heard the sound of battle, and Mc-Lean, brave leader of one of his few American brigades, watches the desperate struggle from Ladue's old looka well-handled battery-Gibbon's own, with never a thought of retreat. But it opens Pope's otherwise blinded eyes, changes in toto his plans for the morrow, and bids him turn his columns on Groveton. Jackson's blunder has taken much from his own fame, added much to those of another, and given the Badgers and Hoosiers the title they rejoice in ever thereafterthe name of the Iron Brigade. Make You Nervous, moonless night, as, within hailing distance of each other, officers and men of the opposing forces go groping about with glimmering lights, looking for friends among the slain. Sad hearts are these beating in the bosoms of the group of union generals in the lence eorner back of the moaning wood, for it is full of wounded. The regimental eommanders are slowly withdrawing their wearied men to the line of the pike, leaving strong pickets to protect the surgeons and their stretcher-bearers at the front. It is a dramatic scene when that dark-eyed soldier, commander of the Seventh, rides in to report to his brigade chief concerning the regiment that caustic "regular" has sometimes misjudged. "What do you think of the Seventh now?" is the anyhow, all eyes to the front, Indiana irrepressible question just before the colonel slips, fainting, from his saddle, and then and not until then permits long front is hidden in its own fire- it to be known that all the time as ha flashing cloud. Another five minutes held his men to their desperate work, thighs by Enfield bullet, his boots ruxning over with blood. Old Graybeard retreat—save only the thick stream of the Sixth, too, is shot through the leg, and Gibbon has borrowed his right-hand man, the tall, brainy adjutant, and the Sixth feels bereft, though it, too, falls into soldier hands. But the Black Hats and the Hoosiers have lost more than all.

Lost in the Woods. For a man who is lost the there great dangers in order of importance are fear, cold and hunger. He may endure entreme hunger for a week, extreme cold for a day, but extreme fear may undo him in an hour. There is no way of guarding against this greatest danger except by assuring him that he is fortified against the other two. In a previous article was described the way of making a fire without matches, a method simple and sure onee it has been learned; and to this we can add the knowledge of available foods that will sustain life for a time. there is little doubt of the wanderer's winning a victory over the relentless forces about him. Starvation is rare in warm regions and I suppose that no one ever starved during the late summer or early autumn. The woods then are full of roots, nuts and berries, that, as a rule, are wholesome and palatable, and usually there is a large amount of small game at this season .-Ernest Seton Thompson, in Country

The following letter is only one of many thousands which are on file in the Pinkham office, and go to prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound must be a remedy of great merit, otherwise it could not produce such marvelous results among sick and ailing women. Dear Mrs. Pinkham:--

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"About nine months ago I was a great sufferer with wonb trouble, which caused me severe pain extreme nervonsness and frequent headaches, from which the doctor failed to relieve me. I tried Lydia E. MARRED A YOUNG WOMAN'S HAP-PINESS FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Interfered With Her Social Dutles and Threatened to Cause Her Retirement--How She Was Cured.

Every sufferer from nervous headache knows how completely it unfits one for the duties and pleasures of life. Any little excitement, or over-exertion, or irregularity brings it on. Sometimes the pain is over the whole head. Again it is like a nail driven into the brain, or a wedge splitting it open, or a band tightening about it. At one time it is all in the top of the head, at another it is all at the base of the skull. Most headaches can be traced to some faulty state of the blood. When the blood is scanty or charged with poison, and the nerves are imperfectly nonrished and the digestion weak, one of the commonest results is frequent and severe headaches.

The important thing is to get rid of the diseased condition of the blood that causes the attack by the use of a remedy that will do the work quickly and thoroughly. What is that remedy? The experience of Miss Ellen McKenna furnishes the answer. She says:

"For more than seven years I was a great sufferer from nervous headache and dizziness. My stomach was disordered, and I became so restless that I could not sit still any length of time. Dizziness interrupted my work greatly. At first the attacks were not so severe, but they gradually grew more violent, and finally became so acute that I was on the point of relinquishing my membership in the different organizations to which I be-

Teamster Killed Mr. Fill and Wife, and Their Child Is Missing at Denver.

WOUNDED THREE POLICE OFFICERS

The Desperate Kan Then Barricaded His Home and Defied Arrest, But Was Killed Later.

His Wife, on Hearing of the Tragedy, Fell Prostrate and Her Death Is Looked For-Fill's House Was Burned.

Denver, Col., March 13.-Mad with rage because of his defeat in a lawsuit in which K. Fill, the man whom he pronounced his bitterest enemy, had been victorious and swearing vengeance again at him and his family, George Schistler, a teamster, armed himself with a rifle and started out to do murder. When the smoke of battle had cleared away, three persons were dead, one was missing and three others lay wounded, two at least dangerously. The wife of George Schistler is prostrated over the affair and may die from the shock.

Schistler had brooded over his troubles with the Fill family, who were immediate neighbors, and started for the Fill home. Fill saw Schistler approaching and tried to avoid him by entering the house, but Schistler sent a bullet into his brain.

Went To Husband's Aid. Mrs. Fill rushed to her husband's side and was instantly killed by a bullet from Schlstler's rifle. Schistler hen set fire to the Fill home, which was destroyed. A son of the Fills is missing and is believed to have perished in the flames. Schistler returned to his own home and barricaded himself inside. In the meantime neighbors appeared on the scene but quickly retreated when bullets from Schistler's rifle began falling near them. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and an ambulance with Police Surgeon Dulin, Capt. Bohanna and three officers went to the scene. Upon the arrival of the officers and before they could leave the ambulance a rain of bullets fell about them. Dulin and Bohanna fell to the floor of the ambulance wounded. The driver reined his horses when another shot from Schistler's rifle dropped one of the animals to the ground. With the assistance of spectators the wounded men were removed from the scene.

Shot Three Times.

Dulin was shot three times, one in each leg and another time in the left thigh. His condition is critical. Bohanna received a bullet in the leg but his bills.—Singapore Free Press. is not dangerously hurt.

A call for reinforcements brought all the available men from police headquarters and the sheriff's office, and a consultation was held to formulate a plan to capture Schistler. Firing squads were stationed in nearby houses and a larger force was placed in a portable fort made of baled hay piled upon a hay wagon. During the preliminary arrangements Schistler kept up a continuous fire in all directions. This was returned by the officers and hundreds of shots were exchanged. Mike Kelly was slightly wounded. Finally Schistler ceased firlng and the hay wagon fort was moved cautiously toward the house. When the attacking force reached the front gate without a shot being fired, one of the officers stepped out into view, thinking to draw the fire of Schistler if he were still alive. None came, and, with a rush, the officers charged the house and battered down the door. They found Schistler lying upon a bed bleeding from several wounds. He died soon afterward. It is not known whether he was hit by bullets from the weapons of the pursuing party or committed suicide.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennetsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torbid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Elec-tric Bitters, which helped her at once and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Oberdorfer, the druggist, sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

An Indisputable SAFE INVESTMENT

The material progress which our country is now, and has been making for the past decade of years, naturally brings to the surface numerous schemes | capital. of the "get-rich-quick" character that benefit only the promoters of such, at the expense of innocent investors.

In this age of genuine prosperity with every legitimate business booming, wages high, work in abundance, giving employment to all willing to earn, and products of the farm bringing best prices; there is little or no excuse for one not to join the army of money-makers.

The first and safest investment to make is to become a reader of the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, the greatest and most reliable newspaper in the United States. With the facts, truth and information gleaned from its columns, one may become well qualified to reach out and secure his share of profit that always accrues from investments intelligently made.

The WEEKLY ENQUIRER costs but one dollar for one year's term. The SUNDAY ENQUIRER costs you two dollars for a year. The Daily Enquirer (7 issues a week) you get for fourteen dollars a year.

Without the aid of a first-class newspaper, success in any enterprise becomes problematical. For ten cents you can secure a sample copy of each, Daily, Sunday and Weekly En-OUIRER. Address, Enquirer Company, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Luminous East Indian Plants. Upward of sixty species of East Indlan plants, mostly of the fern family, with a goodly sprinkling of grasses and creeping vines, are luminous, and it is said that the sides of the mountains in the vicinity of Cyree are nightly illuminated by the pale, white light which they emit. The root stock of a plant from the Ooraghum jungle, near Layki (supposed to be an orchid), possesses the peculiar properties of becoming iuminous when wet, while when dry it is quite justerless. One jointed plant, supposed to be a member of the rush or cane family, emits a flery red light from its leaves, a paie white one from its stalk, while its flowers give out capricious flashes, like that of our "lightning bugs."

Chileans Wear Overcoats Indoors. "In Santiago, the Chilean capital, where I have been residing for some years, it is common to see people put on their overcoats when they enter a house and take them off upon going into the street." said a visitor to the

"The cause of this is that the atmosphere on the outside is warmer than within the residences. The Chileans do not heat their domiciles to any extent, and they are constructed of such thick wails that they are a good deal on the order of refrigerators."-Washington Post.

Arabian horses show remarkable courage in battle. It is said that when a horse of his breed finds himself wounded and knows instinctively that he will not be able to carry his rider much longer he quickly retires, bearing his master to a place of safety while he has yet sufficient strength. But if, on the other hand, the rider is wounded and falls to the ground, the faithfui animal remains beside him, unmindful of danger, neighing until assistance is brought.

"No," answered the sagacious statesman. "I have put in my time coilecting epigrams and anecdotes. The surest way to make an uninteresting speech is to make a thorough study of your subject."-Washington Star.

He Was Immune.

"I suspect," said the fair maid who had talked for fifteen consecutive minutes without permitting him to get a word in edgeways, "you are tired of hearing me talk."

"Not at all," replied the gallant young man. "I get shaved at a barber's and am used to that sort of thing."-Chleage News.
